I was completely taken by the exceptional naming power and attention to detail from this service. I wanted to find a way to get attention for my creatures of great wonder and beauty in this world's great garden, and Namedly delivered.

About us

Our purpose

RL&D will be a centralized platform designed to improve communication and efficiency between RPI students and campus housing and dining services. Currently, students have to rely on emails, multiple websites, or office visits to report issues and find updates about residence and dining halls. This application will aim to combine these resources into one accessible interface. Through the platform, students can access updates about dorm maintenance, dining hall hours, menu updates, and other announcements that involve on campus living. By serving as a single source of information, the system helps with the confusion and ensures students stay informed about their living environment on campus. This application will also provide digital forms that allow students to submit maintenance requests, dining feedback, and general complaints. These submissions would be automatically organized and directed to the correct department, helping with delays caused by misdirected emails. The system may also have confirmation notifications or status tracking features so students can stay updated on the progress of their requests to ensure the entire process is transparent. The Student Living and Dining Hub is meant to serve RPI students by making it easier to voice concerns and receive timely responses while also supporting Student Living & Learning in managing requests more efficiently, identifying recurring issues, and improving the overall on campus living experience.
